

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A point of sale terminal device is capable of communicating information with an automatic change dispenser that is capable of accepting and dispensing cash. The point of sale terminal device

5 includes a deposit input unit that receives from the automatic change dispenser, deposit information that is information on an amount of cash accepted by the automatic change dispenser, an input unit to manually input information on an amount of cash rejected by the automatic

10 cash by adding the deposit information and the information input.